Learn something healthy

Instructors from the Tai Chi & Chi Kung Institute training at the beach.

IF THE new year and the summer weather has left you a little tired and you're looking for a safe way to exercise and gain health benefits then try tai chi and easy chi kung lessons.

Tai chi movements, originally based on martial arts, are performed at a slow pace.

Together with controlled exercises, the movements involve virtually no impact on the joints.

The lessons are suitable for all age groups including specially tailored classes for schools and community groups.

At the Tai Chi and Chi Kung

Institute all classes are conducted by two or more Australian Government accredited coaches and nine instructors have travelled to China to be trained at the Beijing Sports University.

The next seven-week course will start this week and a special offer of "two people for the price of one" is available for beginners to encourage friends and family to learn together.

Classes are held at several suburbs throughout Adelaide.
